

New-York

VOL LV., NO. 17957.

ENGLISH JINGOISM WAXING

PATRIOTIC SONGS CHEERED IN CONCERT HALLS AND THEATRES.

THE NEWSPAPERS LESS CONCILIATORY TO AMERICA—WILL THE SETTLEMENT OF THE VENEZUELAN QUESTION BE HINDERED?—AMERICAN SECURITIES ABROAD—THE HEAD OF J. S. MORGAN & CO. THINKS A 3 PER CENT GOLD BOND ALONE WOULD BE SUCCESSFUL.

(BY CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.)
(Copyright, 1896, by The Tribune Association.)

London, Jan. 13.—The increase of English Jingoism is still noticeable. The managers of the concert halls are catering to the public taste, patriotic songs being received with wild delight. A new song entitled "Hands Off," beginning, "England, to arms! the need is nigh," has been introduced at Daly's Theatre in "An Artist's Model," after the official examination of plays had revised it so as to exclude a personal attack upon the Kaiser. The Laureate's poem, "Jameson's Ride," was recited to-night at the Alhambra Theatre. All the South African scenes in "Cheer, Boys, Cheer!" are received nightly with rapturous applause.

The audiences at the concert halls and theatres are not discriminating; they cheer with equal fervor for the Queen, for Mr. Chamberlain, for Jameson, for Rhodes and for the Chartered Company. Every skit at the expense of the Emperor of Germany excites wild hilarity. The newspapers also bristle with patriotic verse, not always so bad in form as Mr. Austin's ballad, but more distinctly Jingo in tone.

The effect of the outbreak of Jingoism which followed the naval preparations for an impossible war with Germany has been unfavorable to the peace negotiations with America. The Englishman suddenly seems to have recalled the fact that Mr. Cleveland, as well as the Emperor William, has affronted the dignity of the Nation, and he has升 in his attitude toward America.

The newspapers have ceased, with the exception of "The Chronicle" and "The Westminster Gazette," to print conciliatory articles or to take interest in the present of a permanent arbitration tribunal. "The St. James's Gazette" to-night suggests that vague talk of this kind is likely to do more harm than good, since "it can only convince those Americans who dislike us that we are afraid and will yield. They are less likely to be pacified by what they think a display of weakness than encouraged to repeat the provocation in some aggravated form. Once we show that we are afraid to stand for our rights, they will be questioned everywhere, in Jamaica and in Canada as much as in Guiana."

"The St. James's Gazette" would not have written in that vein before the naval demonstration against Germany, nor would English authors, without this outbreak of Jingoism, have withdrawn their names from the address written by Mr. Hall Caine, with the approval of Sir Walter Besant, to their American brethren, nor have initiated an inquiry by the Authors' Society for discrediting it. Jingoism is now in the air. Every Englishman is afraid somebody may take him for a little Englishman, like Mr. Labouchere. The moral pressure of public opinion is no longer brought to bear to induce Lord Salisbury to compromise the Venezuela question.

The Government's decision to publish an executive Blue Book is, however, generally commended. The English view now is that Mr. Cleveland has made arbitration impossible, and that Lord Salisbury need not be too anxious to help him get out of his difficulty. At the same time the resumption of direct negotiations with Venezuela is favored.

American financial measures attract little notice here. Mr. Burns, the head of the London house of J. S. Morgan & Co., said this morning that he thought the popular loan would be taken, but that the only effect would be that it would be paid in greenbacks, and that the currency would be contracted. With the uncertainty now prevailing respecting the interpretation of "coin payment," these bonds could not be sold in Europe, and the expedient of a popular loan would be a failure so far as the protection of the gold reserve was concerned, since those who have gold would not part with it for coin bonds. When asked what measures were necessary in his judgment for the restoration of American credit, Mr. Burns promptly said:

"An issue of 3 per cent bonds payable in gold; these would be taken at once by Dutch, German and French bankers, as well as by American banks which have gold. No new American securities are now marketable in England, but if the Venezuela question were settled, 3 per cent gold bonds would go like hot cakes in London. The Treasury would have all the gold it wanted if all doubt respecting the payment of bonds in gold were removed by legislation. American 3 per cents would at once be a popular investment in Europe if gold instead of coin payments were guaranteed. Then the gold reserve would be safe."

I. N. F.

JOINT COMMISSION PROPOSED.

LORD SALISBURY SAID TO BE ENDEAVORING TO RESUME DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS WITH VENEZUELA.

London, Jan. 13.—The United Press learns on good authority that Lord Salisbury is endeavoring, through a neutral Power, to resume direct negotiations with Venezuela, proposing the appointment of a joint commission to delimit the disputed frontier. If the joint commission fails to reach a complete agreement, the points in dispute are to be referred to a third Power.

CROOKS' SENT BACK TO NEW-YORK.

Boston, Jan. 13.—Charles A. Drake, alias "Whitey" McFetridge, twenty-four years old, a New-York "knockout-drop" operator and general criminal; Richard D. Coleman, alias Hawley, nineteen years old, a New-York pickpocket; and Oscar Burns, alias William E. Hill, alias Ferguson, twenty-two years old, another New-York thief, who were arrested with William, alias "Tiny," Smith, on Friday evening, were "railroaded" out of the city on Sunday afternoon on their pledge to return to New-York. Smith confessed that a number of signatures shown to him were those that were on checks which he had stolen from letter-boxes in Philadelphia, and on which he had raised the amounts. He will be tried here on a charge of check-raising and burglary.

HURT BY A CABLE-CAR IN PARK ROW.

MISS PEARSON, EIGHTY-TWO YEARS OLD, TAKEN TO A HOSPITAL.

Miss Margaret Pearson, an aged sister of ex-Judge Pearson, was seriously hurt by a third-ave. cable-car in Park Row, near the Postoffice, at 11 a. m. yesterday. She was attempting to cross Park Row from Broadway, where she was knocked down by the car as it was swinging around the curve at the terminus of the road. Her back was struck by the dashboard, and she was flung down on her face on the pavement. Her nose was cut and she was unable to move. Several men lifted her from the pavement and carried her into an office in Park Row, where the man who had an ambulance was called to carry her to the Hudson Street Hospital.

When the ambulance arrived Miss Pearson was able to walk to it. She said that she was old, but that she had been carrying a heavy load for many years, and when she was young, she was brought to this city by her parents. Her son, a Mrs. Mary Pearson, at No. 32 East Eighty-sixth-st.

IS HARRISON OUT OF IT?

SIGNIFICANT REMARK BY HIS FRIEND, EX-SENATOR PALMER.

THE LATTER, AFTER A CONFERENCE WITH THE EX-PRESIDENT, ANNOUNCES THAT IN HIS JUDGMENT "GENERAL HARRISON WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION."

Ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer, of Michigan, who is now in the city, had a long conference with ex-President Harrison at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday. After seeing General Harrison, Mr. Palmer said: "In my judgment, General Harrison will not be a candidate for the Presidential nomination."

This statement is regarded by politicians as important on account of the close relations of personal friendship that have long existed between the ex-President and Mr. Palmer. They served in the United States Senate together and their intimacy was of a marked character. After General Harrison became President, he intended that Mr. Palmer should have a place in his Cabinet and proposed that he should accept the post of Secretary of Agriculture. Mr. Palmer, however, was bitterly opposed by General Alice and other Michigan Republicans. Mr. Palmer declined to place the President in a position of antagonism to the dominant faction of the party in Michigan, and General Harrison gave the portfolio to General Jeremiah Rusk of Wisconsin.

General Harrison afterward appointed Mr. Palmer Minister to Spain. Their friendship has since been continued without interruption or impairment, and it was believed last evening that the ex-President had confided his purpose to ex-Senator Palmer of keeping out of the race.

Yesterday morning after breakfast at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, General Harrison called upon Mrs. Stanford, widow of Senator Stanford, of California, whose law suit he is conducting in Washington. After a long consultation with his client, the General went downtown and had an interview with a lawyer who has an office in the Mills Building. He spent the morning downtown and returned to the hotel in the afternoon, when he received Senator Bayard. He dined at 6:30 with Russell Harrison, and after dinner, accompanied by his son, he called upon Mrs. Dimmick at her home, No. 40 East Thirty-eighth-st., and spent the evening there, returning to the hotel at 10:30.

BUSHNELL TAKES OFFICE.

SWORN IN AS GOVERNOR OF OHIO.

GOVERNOR MCKINLEY'S GRACIOUS SPEECH—THE NEW EXECUTIVE WISHES HIGHER THINGS FOR HIS PREDECESSOR.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 13.—The city was today with flags and bunting, marching troops and political clubs, with their bands of music, celebrating the inauguration of Governor Bushnell. The inauguration exercises proper took place in the rotunda of the Capitol at noon. At 11:45 a Legislative Committee arrived at the Capitol, as did also carriage with Governor McKinley and Governor-elect Bushnell. The exercises were simple and brief. Prayer was offered by the Rev. J. W. Russell, of the Central Christian Church. The oath of office was then administered by Judge T. E. Minshew, of the Supreme Court. Governor McKinley then presented Governor Bushnell with his commission in the following speech:

"We have assembled to-day to perform a constitutional duty of great dignity and importance, the transfer of the office and power of the Government to the Chief Executive chosen by the people last November, and whose term of office, by the constitution, begins to-day.

It is a tribute to our institutions and an assurance of their strength and more certain evidences of public confidence, coming from every quarter of the State and from all classes of our people, that he who takes the oath of office to-day does so with a clear conscience to the office with a larger plurality, and but one with a larger popular vote than he. It will be a source of comfort and a tower of strength to him to realize always that he has the support of the people, and that his public good, and whose support can be counted upon in every effort to promote the welfare of the State. I congratulate him on his election and wish him success in his work in Armenia.

"This is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,

"That is just what one would naturally look for. I predicted that no Red Cross agent, man or woman, could enter the country. I may add about the foregoing communication of the Sultan's purpose was given by Henry Norman, the representative of "The London Daily Chronicle," who has been in Washington looking into the Venezuela question and was at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Norman, when asked about the report that the Sultan had refused to allow any of the Red Cross workers to enter Armenia, did not seem at all surprised. He said in a matter-of-fact way,</p